

A member of the Rifle Company in our city, was severely injured on Saturday evening, while engaged in loading a cannon which was being fired on the levee. There were so many contradictory reports, that it was impossible to ascertain the particulars. So far as we have heard, the unfortunate man had several fingers blown off and one or both of his arms badly broken by the premature discharge of the cannon. Of late, such accidents are of common occurrence, and should be guarded against. Let this be a warning to our inexperienced artillerymen.

Mr. Charles Dailee will please accept our thanks for late news.

Our friend J. J. Compere has laid us under obligations for late papers.

The New York Journal of Commerce, in surveying the Republican programme—first, the Morrill tariff, to enforce which at the South, Congress has to be evoked in extra-session; secondly, port of entry to be abolished at the South, and goods made contraband when attempting to enter—remarks:

"Such piracy will never be submitted to by the other Powers. While we have the undoubted right to regulate the commerce in places which we are in possession, by establishing, abolishing, or changing our ports of entry, it would be an assumption of power quite intolerable, should we undertake, by our mere dictum, to exclude from the ports of two thousand miles of seacoast upon the Confederate States the commerce essential to the trade, productions and prosperity of millions of people in both hemispheres. Such a policy will never be submitted to for a moment by England, by France, or by any nation which has the power or spirit to resist it. Whatever may be the anticipations of the Administration at Washington respecting the recognition of or the refusal to recognize the Confederate States, we may rest assured that such an outrage upon commercial and maritime rights as the proposed plan would involve, will not commend the Government of the United States to favor, in the opposition to which it may feel called upon to make to the recognition of the de facto Government of which President Davis is the head.

Greeley's hostility to Seward is becoming daily more bitter, if this is possible, by the latter's peace policy, and even Lincoln, Greeley's own candidate and President, comes in for his share. Here is one of the Tribune's last:

"While Mr. Lincoln is nominally the President, in fact he is nobody, and of no account. Mr. Seward is the true head of the new administration. He also is to dictate its policy and shape its destiny. Mr. Lincoln has nothing to do but receive his salary, entertain guests at the White House, and obediently sign the decrees which Mr. Seward directs to be prepared and laid before him."

To Advertisers.

On the first page of our paper will be found the contracting rates for advertisements, which we have put at very low figures, and consequently expect a large advertising patronage. In reading the rates, remember that advertisements are published daily, not once a week, for the prices mentioned, which makes a material difference. We shall be pleased to have our merchants and professional gentlemen to pay us a visit.

PETERSON'S Superb Magazine. This popular monthly magazine is greatly enlarged for 1861. It will contain nearly 1000 pages; from 25 to 30 steel plates; and about 800 wood engravings—and all this for only Two dollars a year. This is more, proportionately than any magazine ever have—hence "Peterson's is emphatically the Magazine for the times."

The stories in "Peterson" are conceded to be the best published anywhere. The editors are Mrs. Ann S. Stephens author of "Mary Derwent," "Fashion and Famine," and Charles J. Chandler, Moulton, Mehitable Holyoke, Virginia F. Townsend, Carry Stanley, Caroline E. Fairfield, Ellen Ashton, F. L. Maee, E. Dewees, A. L. Otis, and all the most popular female writers in America.

These, and other writers contribute exclusively to "Peterson." Morality and virtue are always inculcated. It is the only Magazine whose Fashion Plates can be relied on.

Each number contains a fashion Plate, engraved on steel, and colored; also a dozen or more New Styles engraved on wood, also, a Pattern from which a dress, Mantilla, or child's costume can be cut without the aid of a mantaumaker—so that each number in this way will save a year's subscription. A piece of fashionable music will be given in every number.
